

WCG is a mix of communal and individual gardening. Communal garden areas are much bigger than individual beds. They are maintained through volunteer time, but those volunteers need materials to improve and keep the soil healthy. We generate our own compost and worm farm products but need to source mulches, manures and some other organic fertilisers from off site.